1991 S & G YEARBOOK

The new Yearbook, which is a cross between a gliding annual and a 7th issue of S & G, will be out towards the end of April. It has 72 pages with a lively mix of articles by some of our leading contributors plus the essential information you will need for the soaring season from airspace to annual records.

- Tom Bradbury helps you pick the Diamond Day using media Met
- Andy Davis, British Team member, gives advice on making full use of good conditions
- Derek Piggott has compiled a complete list of gliders with comments on their handling characteristics.
- William Malpas has written a comprehensive guide to flying in France with a list of all the clubs
- Bill Scull has a feature on establishing a gliding site
- A group of pilots write about their flights on August 7, 1990 - a day which gave some exceptional distances

- Platypus, just back from Australia, is in good form
- Chris Wills covers the vintage gliding scene
- John Glossop shows how to make sure of TP photographs
- The Club Directory will show you where all the other clubs operate and give you their launch charges
- Find out more about the BGA Coaching Programme, the Inter-Club League, National Ladder, the FAI and RAeC and RAFGSA
- Graham McAndrew highlights a particular cause of accident
- See how other clubs faired in 1990 with the BGA annual statistics
- Competition Numbers

All this and much more costs a mere £3.50p and is available from the BGA without any further charge for postage as a special offer only to S & G subscribers. Alternatively, clubs may order copies in bulk at the usual generous discount rates offered by the BGA shop.

As we anticipate a heavy demand, make sure of your copy now by filling in the form overleaf. It is also advisable for clubs to place their order well in advance - bulk orders with invoices will be despatched to clubs direct from the printers.

CloudMaster® High Performance Sunglasses

A range of sunglasses developed to meet the demands of aviators today, and in widespread use.
